THE WAY YOUTH SEES IT
by Andrew M. Greeley and C. J. McNaspy

Do you find it hard to grasp what the student riots mean? What students are talking about when they get so angry? Why they don't trust anyone above thirty years old? Fr. Greeley, sociologist and author of books on youth, popularized the phrase "The New Breed," applied to youth of the late 1960's. Here he explains his admiration for them—and warns them against falling victim to the weaknesses of their own high aspirations. Fr. McNaspy, one of the editors of "AMERICA," tells of the reactions he recorded while visiting college campuses to learn what is stirring students today—and depressing them. With stimulating study questions and reading list. (B-3) 25¢

FOUR WOMEN TALK ABOUT NUNS

Each year fewer young women decide to become nuns. Why? Is there something out of focus in their traditional way of life in the convent? Are the teachers of our parochial school children really "out of touch" with life around them? At a time when the religious life is being examined afresh in the light of Vatican II, three nuns discuss the value of virginity as a way of life, and the fulfillment that the 180,000 nuns of the United States find in that life. Finally, a laywoman suggests that more young women might be attracted to such a life if they could come to know the "inside" of it. With questions for group study and a reading list. (B-5) 25¢

A CATHOLIC PHILOSOPHY OF EDUCATION
by William J. McGucken, S. J.
Up-Dated and Revised Edition

Here is the classic statement on the purpose and point of Catholic education. Especially helpful for those who intend to be teachers—and for parents of high school or college students. Over 100,000 copies have been sold. Adopted on many campuses as a supplementary text in education courses. Completely revised in 1967, with an up-to-date reading list and copious study questions. A Discussion of Racial Tensions
by Bayard Rustin and Daniel Patrick Moynihan

"Why don't Negroes respect law and order? Why do they have so many fatherless, illegitimate children?" Bayard Rustin, well-known leader in the Negro civil rights movement, answers these and related questions in his section of this pamphlet. In the second part, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, former Assistant Secretary of Labor, tells how Negro family life still shows the erosive effects of centuries of slavery. As summer comes on and rumors fly about concerning riots when the heat comes, here is serious reading about America's number one sociological problem. (B-2) 25¢
